

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A resin molding die includes: a cavity; a resin inlet through which a liquid resin to be cured is injected
5 into the cavity; and an air vent through which air is released to an exterior space of the resin molding die during injection of the resin, the air vent being provided on an opposite side from the resin inlet with respect to the cavity.